ANTIFENIX UPDATE 2016

17 months have passed since the Czech Republic's repressive forces insulted the mythological bird Phoenix, by using its name for the national police crackdown against anarchist, radical left, animal and earth liberationist movements. What happened and what is the situation of radicals today?

COMRADES IN JAIL

and forgot to prolong Petr's stay in remand.

Since the repression started in there have been four people in custodial jail. Three of them were from the Fenix case ("preparation of a terrorist attack against the train with military equipment"): Martin

Ignacak, Petr Sova and Ales Koci. The other person in jail was Igor. Ales's case was reclassified from participating in the "terrorist group" to illegal posession of arms and after three months he was released, still awaiting trial which is an unusually long time for such a minor charge. Igor was released after three months for lack of evidence. Petr was released after 7 months in a very strange situation when apparently a prosecutor made some procedural flaws

Martin Ignacak, a member of the entrapped group, is the last one being held in jail at the moment. He is isolated from his loved ones and is being denied proper food - without vegan food from the prison kitchen, he has to receive (only cold-packed) vegan food from his comrades and family. Also for 15 months he was banned from many usual social prison activities such as playing football, etc. for "security" reason. In June, 2016 the Prague city court decided to release him to await trial at home. The state attorney appealed right away and as argument used a description of Martins sister written by the chief of the police unit for investigating organized crime saying that this apolitical working mother of two children is a dangerous anarchist organizer and a member of Anarchist Black Cross and that from the connection between her and her brother we could expect more criminal activities. This was the

THE NEXT COURT HEARING WILL TAKE PLACE

FROM OCTOBER 3RD TO 7TH, AT WHICH THE STATE

AGENTS' TESTIMONY IS MUCH ANTICIPATED.

Operation Fenix

The first wave of Operation Fenix started April 28th 2015. In the early morning police raided several apartments, as well as the anarchist central Ateneo in Most, confiscating many electronic devices including a major server which hosted many anti-authoritarian web pages and arrested 11 people. At the end of the day police accused six people of a conspiracy to prepare a terrorist attack against the train carrying military equipment. Three of them were locked away in pretrial detention.

Very soon police had to produce their major evidence - two state agents. These two agents-provocateurs had infiltrated a group of anarchists, gained trust, and later on started to talk about the plan of attacking the military cargo train. They recorded every meeting and activity and when they had enough material the entrapment was done and the trap was shut.

Police interrogated and harassed many people in the first days of the repression and haven't stopped since.

This was the first time police used the method of entrapment against the anarchist movement and the very first time any organized group was accused and charged for terrorism.

Lukas Borl – Catch me if you can

A long term anarchist organizer from the city of Most, one of the 11 people arrested during the first night of Fenix, Lukas Borl announced that he went underground in autumn 2015. He stated that he couldn't bear the spying and nonstop monitoring by the state agents. Lukas was worried that he would end up going mad with paranoia or sent to prison, because even for an outspoken radical anarchist, everyday police harassment isn't a normal thing. In the spring of this year it proved that Lukas made a good choice by going into clandestinity - the police revealed their suspicion that Lukas is a founder of an insurrectional group called the Network of Revolutionary Cells (SRB) and unofficially accused him of several arsons against police vehicles. They portrayed him on their webpage as wanted, armed and dangerous. Also police made fake Facebook profile of Lukas and sent emails in an attempt to spread the misinformation that Lukas is an infiltrator. All of that is a complete lie. Lukas is a trusted comrade against and it's obvious that the state's repressive apparatus is trying to make his underground time harder.

Lukas is still active, publishing articles and according to his blog he moves pretty freely around the world. It seems that the police are totally desperate in their search for Lukas. Since the beginning of April, police have entered several flats without warrants, tried to officially and unofficially interrogate many people, used some old KGB practices such as taking a person to the forest or visiting his pregnant partner's parents to threaten them, along with threatening several comrades all over the country – all in an attempt to get any information about Lukas Borl or the Network of Revolutionary Cells (SRB).

Igor Shevcov – "pro Putin anarchist"

With food the hunger grows and this works all the more when a repressive state starts to go after anarchists. After two months. another anarchist was accused of terrorism and remanded. Igor Shevcov (comrade from Russia who came to Prague to live and study) was accused of taking part in an attack on the home of the Minister of Defense. Not only have anarchists never used a tactic such as attacking a house with a nine year old child and other people inside, but there wasn't even a fire in the house, no firemen were called, no police were called till the next day, and the evidence against Igor was a police dog named Rina who barked when the detectives asked her if loor was the attacker.

The police - followed by the media - labeled Igor a "pro-Putin anarchist" - an absurd term chosen to provide people a false reason why he would have wanted to burn the minister and his family. With all the attention on the "Russian terrorist," the Czech minister of defense Martin Stropnicky was busily signing treaties cementing US military presence and the US army bases inside Czech borders. Stropnicky also tried to pushed through a new law reinstating the mandatory military draft - using as an argument that the war with Russia is around the corner and that the USA is the only choice Czech people have. He is also a big advocate of TTIP.

Igor was held in the highest restricted-security remand facility for three months without access to a proper vegan diet, any visits and his post was delayed for weeks. His case was also connected with participation in criminal damage. That is a ridiculous accusation, alleging that a video recording of someone else spray painting a prison wall during a spontaneous demonstration also showed loor helping the graffiti to be finished smoothly.

The dramatic and sometimes theatrical court decided that there was unfortunately not enough evidence to prove that Igor took part in obviously preplanned attack on the minister's house, but for the charge of "complicity in criminal damage," Igor was sentenced to 2 years of expulsion/exile. As the main argument for expulsion, the judge said that Igor does not have any substantial social bonds and that he doesn't have the correct visa. No one could expect that any judge would respect any bonds beside marriage or any relationship which is not based on a profitable contract but still she forgot to mention that the reason why loor lost his student visa was because of his stay in custodial jail by the same court - and for no reason since he was found innocent in the terrorism case

This is a "very nice" way for the Czech state to apologize for already ruining someone's life. So it's hardly surprising that "Igor Shevcov doesn't show any respect for our system based on democratic values": another argument by the judge.

Igor appealed the sentence, and the appeal court took place in the end of July. The new sentence: Igor is banned from attending any supporting or cultural event or any event like a manifestation, demonstration, benefit, mobilization, protest or any other action within the anarchist movement. If you want to support Igor, rather than congratulating him on his "better" sentence, ask him what kind of support he needs, for he is in a very uncomfortable situation. And mostly, keep changing your environment into a world where repression, exclusion and borders are exchanged for mutual solidarity and freedom.

And the Police?

They advocated that Fenix was a hunt for the anarcho-insurectional group Network of Revolutionary Cells (SRB) and even claimed that Operation Fenix destroyed this group responsible for several acts of sabotage. Now it's clear that police were lying. The accused ones have nothing to do with SRB and police fortunately have no clue who is behind their vehicles going up in flames. As proof, since the beginning of Fenix there were many more actions than before and SRB's sabotage of property even forced a businessman - who bullied his employees instead of paying their wages - to pay a big part of his debt to them. Seems like with the spreading hunger across society there is also growing anger.

Since the repression started the state's agents have been monitoring, spying, following, interrogating, threatening, hustling, arresting, accusing, lying, imprisoning, bullying, stealing from, and confiscating the belongings of many people, and definitely not only from anarchist circles. For many this is something new, but we know that the police are only showing their real face.

Don't forget who they are. The same people who imprisoned Igor for no reason, keep Martin locked down and away from proper vegan food, break into peoples homes and so on are from the same institutions which several times evicted Klinika and all the previous squats, which sent thousands of migrants back to war zones, which kick homeless people out of the trams to let them freeze, among so much more.

last unbearable step for Martin and he and he went on a hunger strike. He stopped after ten days due to the toll on the emotional and physical health of his mother. The only result of the first hearing of the group entraped in so-called terrorist attack being that the court prolonged Martin's stay in remand for another three months.

real weapon

Whether or not you are already experiencing similar repression in your country it is good to prepare yourself for the moments when it comes. In the moments like this, solidarity is all we have and compare to individuals or sometimes unfortunately lives could be unbreakable. Sometimes people are accused of actions we wouldn't carry out ourselves or which we even find foolish. Also it can appear that by taking a step back, away from the "terrorists" we may save ourselves from the repression. First of all, we have to remember that it is police who accused them and the police are the last ones to be trusted. Also by stepping back or letting them make a gap between the radical and the peaceful ones we do exactly what the police hope to accomplish with the repression. Because then they know that they can always crack down on the radicals using the same tactics and the same narrative, and the rest will just bend.

In our movements, it's certainly true that we have a lot of internal disagreement and splits, but when it comes down to it, we must stick together and refuse to let the institution which wants to erase us to build walls between us. Remember that if some of us are in prison it is not the end, and that the bigger win for the repressive apparatus is in creating divided and paranoid individuals. We can still come out of this situation as a diverse movement based on solidarity and integrity. Repression will exist as long as state does and as long as we challenge it. So get ready!

Take care of each other, so we can be strong together.

Since the beginning of Fenix, many support actions have taken place. From letter writing nights, food and money collection, dembanner drops, spontaneous noise demos with fireworks, actions at Czech embassies, graffiti, wheat-pasting, bomb threats to liberation of hens, sabotage against fur farms, fires against police cars and a bank in Poland and much more.

We definitely agree with Martin when he said: "I am not gonna tell anyone what kind of actions to choose, that's against my ba- \rightarrow sic values". We would just add that we aren't going to ban any type of actions as well. It is up to you and your horizons. But still, think twice about what can really help the people \hookrightarrow Send a noisy greeting over the wall to Martin. Even a very small group you support in the moment of your action especially consider those awaiting trial.

FIGHTING THE REPRESSIONS IS NOT A POLITICALLY OR GEOGRAPHICALLY ISOLATED CAMPAIGN. IT IS A PART OF BROAD AND INTERNATIONAL STRUGGLE. IF YOU DON'T KNOW HOW TO SUPPORT US OR YOU ARE FROM TOO FAR AWAY, DON'T WORRY. WHAT'S THE MOST IMPORTANT IS TO LEARN FROM OUR EXPERIENCE AND KEEP FIGHTING STRUCTURES OF HIERARCHY AND OPPRESSION FROM WHERE YOU STAND. NEITHER OPERATION FENIX NOR THE SOLIDARITY IN RESPONSE ARE ABOUT THE FEW INDICTED ONES BUT ABOUT THE FUTURE OF AUTHORITARIAN SUBVERSIVE ACTION ITSELF. SO STAY ACTIVE WHATEVER YOU DO AND WHEREVER YOU ARE.

Prepare your locale for the possibility of the repression coming to your city one day. Don't get trapped in paranoia, or be paralyzed by fear. In that case, our enemies will have been successful. Create strong bonds with people you trust, spread a security culture and most importantly tell everyone around you "DO NOT TALK TO POLICE!" It can only ruin your life and the lives of your loved ones.

Martin's sister:

"If they know we're here for them, determined to do whatever it takes to offer support and encouragement, they will be stronger and become harder to break. They must know that we are here for them..."

Martin:

"Thank you all for your support. Prison isolates and I just refuse such institutions which destroy human beings. Sending a lot of strength to everyone. The struggle continues."

Igor (the last speech in the court)

"My Russian citizenship is not enough and my anarchist ideology is fundamentally against the idea of trying to attack a minister's children. (...) In the end of my last speech I will add that I consider the view of the state institutions on people's relationships to be very inhumane – they look at it from a very bureaucratic point of view and it doesn't respect what is not confirmed in a bureaucratic/official way. I don't have here in the Czech Republic either property or "official" family, but still I have comrades and close friends and those whom I really care about. They are my family here. I don't have any property but I do have an emotional bonds to places, people and concrete commitments and activities. The state apparatus doesn't respect that and I consider that disgusting. The end."
